

Society brightened up considerably during the past week and offered its devotees a delightful and varied programme of amusements. The wedding of Miss Stella Bransford and Lewis A. Evans was the brilliant event of the week, while in younger society circles the costume dance given by Miss Ruth Kirkpatrick was pleasantly anticipated and most thoroughly enjoyed. For the remaining days there were innumerable teas and card parties to make the days delightful.

In literary circles the week was also a busy one and throughout the district clubs there was a general air of activity. The Ladies' Literary club held the first meeting of the year on Friday and the afternoon proved to be one of the week's pleasantest social events.

Character Ball.
The event of the week in younger society circles was the character ball given Friday evening at the Ladies' Literary club by Miss Ruth Kirkpatrick.

The rooms were very handsomely decorated for the affair. The reception hall and ball room were decorated in Oriental fashion. Rare Japanese embroideries covered the walls and Japanese screens were used to shade cozy corners. An artistic arrangement of oleanders in blossom and palms were used on the musicians' stand, where Christensen's orchestra was stationed. Downstairs the smoking room was filled with couches and the walls were covered with Navajo blankets.

The dining room was done in pink and green. Long sprays of asparagus plant were draped on the wall, and pink roses and carnations were used with artistic effect on the table.

The guests were all in costume and in a masque and, during the dancing, the scene was one of bewildering beauty. Receiving were Mrs. Kirkpatrick, Mrs. John Marshall and the Misses Kirkpatrick.

The guests were the Misses Kessler, Howat, Terhune, Griffin, Groo, Colbath, Anderson, Miller, Zane, Thomas, Sallier, Sears, Evans, Richardson, Porter, Salisbury, Chambers, Donnellan, Leavelle, Sharp, Messers, Coffin, Allen, Groo, Thomas, Dinwiddie, Kimball, Bechtel, Lawrence, Sharp, Richardson, Schoppe, Goodwin, Smith, Thompson, McKimmins, Eldredge, Roberts, Meynard, Porter, Woodward, Webber, Cummings, Hammill, Savage, Sprague, Glendinning, Williams, Kimball and R. C. Chambers.

Alta Club Dinner.
Mr. and Mrs. David McCarthy of Syracuse, entertained at an elaborate dinner at the Alta club Friday evening.

The private dining room was used for the affair and was handsomely decorated with palms and flowers. The table was done in green and white. In the center was exquisite arrangement of white carnations on a bed of ferns, while from it extended graceful spray of asparagus plumosa to the guests' places, where they were fastened with bunches of carnations and green satin streamers. Covers were laid for twelve and while the menu was being served a string orchestra stationed in the hall discoursed a well arranged programme of concert music.

Kensington Tea.
Mrs. W. V. Eberly gave an informal Kensington Tuesday afternoon. Cut flowers and smilax added their beauty to the attractive home. Present were Miss McGrath, Miss Gertrude McGrath, Miss Thom, Miss Leonard, Miss Sallie Leonard, Miss Carrie Williams.

Engagements Announced.
The engagement has been announced of Miss Sylvia Ueda Snow to Dr. R. H. Hughes. The marriage will take place during the autumn. Miss West in the granddaughter of President Lorenzo Snow. Mrs. H. S. Young has announced the engagement of their daughter, Emmeline, to Walter Nebecker. The date for the wedding has not been set.

At Dinner.
Mr. Benner X. Smith was the host of a handsomely arranged dinner last evening at the Alta club. The table was laid in the private dining room, and was beautified with carnations and sweet peas.

Mr. Smith's guests were Mrs. Richardson of San Francisco, Miss Madge Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Young, Miss Mamie Porter, Mr. Sam Porter, Mr. Charles Richardson and Mr. Max E. Smith.

Delightful Affair.

A new degree team was organized, with Sir Knight Commander Murphy as captain.

OGDEN SOCIETY.

(Special Correspondence.)

Ogden, Sept. 9.—The Ogden Socially has been one of considerable activity and the events have been of the variety characteristic of the season when indoor events are giving way to the outdoor affairs. The preparations for the great social event of the coming two weeks, the tabernacle fair, have gone briskly forward during the week. The various clubs have again resumed their meetings.

The coterie held the first meeting of the season at the residence of Mrs. Smith and Miss Smith on Tuesday last. The election of a president being the chief business of the day, there was a full attendance. Mrs. A. B. Patton was unanimously elected president, the other officers being Mrs. G. W. Perkins, vice president; Mrs. U. J. Wenner, secretary; and Mrs. J. N. Kimball, historian; Mrs. W. F. Adams and Miss Minnie Kievel were appointed a committee to select a die for the forthcoming year book. The preparations for the social hour "over the teacups," Mrs. J. E. Fletcher, former members of the coterie, assisted the hostess.

On Tuesday, Sept. 5, shortly after 8 o'clock, a large number of friends assembled at the residence of Justice Joseph Hall, and sprang a surprise on his daughter, Miss Millie M. Hall. After the first outbreak of merriment had subsided the party settled down to an evening's enjoyment at high five, casino, loto, yacht, euchre, checkers and the like, while others engaged in quiet conversation until 11 o'clock, when a delicious repast was served and partaken of with a zest that brightened the pleasure of the occasion. At midnight the friends departed, having spent a delightful evening in the society of friends. Among the invited guests were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. William Moyes, Mr. and Mrs. George Shorten, Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Brown, Mr. and Mrs. John G. Ellis, Ed. Ensign, Mr. and Mrs. John W. F. Volker, Joseph P. Hall, Mrs. John Driver, Mrs. Eliza Stevens, Archie L. Hall, Mrs. Eliza Christensen, Mrs. E. Ballanger, Misses M. A. Riley, M. A. Emmett, Annie Driver, Lizzie Thompson, Imogene Wilson, Lulu Ford, Mrs. Ellen J. Stevens, Misses Julia Cole, Nannie Hall, Hazel Hall, Master Charles Francis, Miss Leonora T. Hall, Miss Jane Moyes.

Monday last Mrs. A. G. Bowman entertained a number of friends in honor of Miss Ruth Evelyn Moech, who leaves soon for her work in Logan. Mrs. Bowman's handsome parlors were well filled with a merry party. Prior to the serving of tea, Miss Moech very charmingly entertained the ladies with a number of beautiful selections, which were a great treat to all. Miss Moech's readings were interspersed with vocal and instrumental music very prettily rendered by Miss Flossie Bowman and Misses Lettie and Pearl Richards. A dinner was then served, which added much to Mrs. Bowman's reputation as a hostess. Dainties of the season were served in a style of surprising generosity. Those who enjoyed the hospitality were Mesdames D. H. Peery, F. D. Richards, John A. Boyle, C. C. Richards, L. P. Moech, Greenwell, E. L. M. Richards and Bowman and the Misses L. C. Moech, Lettie and Pearl Richards and Flossie Bowman.

Miss Libby Swope of Huntington, Ore., well known in Ogden, passed through yesterday, going to Omaha.

Mrs. A. Fernlund will entertain the Rathbone Sisters next Thursday, at 673 Twenty-first street.

The first meeting of the Historical society was held on Saturday afternoon at the cozy home of Mrs. Bond on Oak street. The hostess, as vice president, called the meeting to order, and after a few very clever remarks, requested Miss Whalen to preside at this meeting. The literary programme consisted of four excellent discussions given entirely without notes. The first topic, "Abelard as Man and Lover," was read by Mrs. Bicheisel. "Heloise as Woman and Nun," by Mrs. Bishop. Gordon spoke of "Innocent III and Mendicant Orders." Miss Whalen followed with a biography of Thomas Aquinas. The meeting adjourned to meet Sept. 16, with Mrs. Bicheisel.

This being the anniversary of the birth of the hostess, the ladies were cordially invited to remain for a social hour, which was thoroughly enjoyed by all, and during which dainty refreshments were served. The guests were Mesdames Keller, Coulter, White, Ives and Miss Richardson.

Mrs. Daly of Springfield is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. C. A. Hatterson.

Wednesday afternoon, in the Salt Lake temple, Miss Diana Watson was united in marriage to Mr. C. A. Hatterson. The bride is a daughter of Hon. John Watson, and is recognized as a leader in the social and charitable work of the Fifth ward. Mr. Hatterson departs soon on a mission, and his wife will be with her parents until his return.
